LONGER TERM MANAGEMENT -SOUND DESENSITISATION

This is a proven method for managing unusual sound related behaviours in dogs and cats. It involves exposing the animal to various noises, at different volumes in a controlled way.

You can play the sound of fireworks in your home in various rooms, starting very quietly and slowly increasing the volume over a long period of time until your pet is no longer affected.

HOW TO BUILD A DEN

With their acute senses - every flash and bang from a firework can be unexpected and alarming. As owners, you can give your cats and dogs a safe place to retreat, should they need to.

Constructing an area within your home can help them feel safe. A den is a space where positive association can be created giving your pets a feeling of security.

FAMILIARISATION

Look to prepare the den area at least three weeks before fireworks season to allow time for your pets to get used to it.

TREATS

using a crate.

SMELLS

Leave normal dry food or treats in the den area to help with positive association and create a distraction.

Line crates with used blankets.

towels or old clothes to make it smell familiar and make it comfy. You can lay towels

on the floor if you're not

SIZE

Make sure the den is large enough for your cat or dog to comfortably stand up, lie down, stretch out and turn around in.

Build the den in a room they usually like to be in, where they already feel comfortable and content. You may wish to choose a location that can be kept all vear round.

ACCESS POINTS

Allow free access to the den at all times – this will allow them to choose to go there whenever they need to without restriction.

SOUND AND LIGHT

Cover the den with a blanket where appropriate to muffle the sounds and flashes from the fireworks as much as possible. Closing your curtains will help with this too.

ESPECIALLY FOR CATS - HEIGHT

Cats feel more comfortable high up, so where possible, position their den in a location that is off the floor.

TOP TIP:

A crate may be too bulky to place higher up, but cat caves or igloos are softer and could work in this type of location. A cardboard box is an excellent temporary hiding place too!

ESPECIALLY FOR DOGS - TOYS

Put toys inside the den so they understand it's their space and start to build a positive association. Play with them if they want to, but don't force them.

TOP TIP:

A hollow chew toy stuffed with kibbles, snuffle mat and brain games should keep them busy for hours!

A PET OWNERS GUIDE TO FIREWORKS SEASON

Fireworks season is an exciting time of the year - however, it can be overshadowed by concern for our pets due to the loud bangs and flashes of light.

And this concern impacts a lot of us, but there are steps you can take to make it enjoyable for all the family. Planning ahead is key!

3 WEEKS BEFORE FIREWORKS NIGHT

BUILD A DEN

A den is a specific area in your home for your pets to hide in if they feel fearful. Build it well in advance of fireworks season so your pets have time to adapt.

Both cats and dogs find dens comforting, but there are differences you should be aware of in order to construct the best environment for them.

For instructions on how to build a den for your pet - see overleaf.

FIREWORKS NIGHT

TALK TO AN EXPERT

Visit your vet practice or a behaviourist to discuss unwanted behaviours previously displayed by your pets during loud noises or fireworks.

Speak to them about Zylkene, a natural supplement for use in helping pets cope when facing stressful situations or before occasions such as a change in their normal environment.

2 WEEKS BEFORE

TOP TIPS:

- 1. Try and record a video of your cat or dog displaying their behaviour to loud noises before you visit the expert to allow them to see it first-hand.
- 2. Speak to your vet about the best method to give Zylkene to your pet. You can choose to give it as a capsule, sprinkled on food or dissolved in water (recommended for cats) or as a tasty chew (recommended for dogs).

SET THE ROUTINE AND GIVE THEM ZYLKENE

It's likely that people will soon start their own private firework displays in their garden, meaning you could have some very close to you – especially if it's a neighbour.

If you are in an area where fireworks are starting early - refer to the 'On the night' checklist.

Start their daily intake of Zylkene and continue until their normal routine is in place and no more fireworks are being let off.

CHECK THEIR ID INFORMATION

Due to the unpredictable behaviours displayed during fireworks season, there is an increased to date, such as a change in your name or address

TOP TIPS:

- contact your vet who may have it noted within their client records, if not they can scan your pet and check for you.
- Ensure your cat or dog is wearing their collar with their netal ID tag, just in case early fireworks are set off.

FOLLOW THIS 'ON THE NIGHT' CHECKLIST

1) Feed them their normal meal earlier in the day. Don't forget their daily dose of Zylkene!

This will allow them to digest their food before you let them outdoors to go to the toilet for the evening before stressful noises occur.

2) Walk your dog and let your cat out earlier in the day when it is still light.

This reduces the possibility of exposure to fireworks if people set them off at early nightfall.

If your dog is healthy, go for a longer walk than usual. This can reduce their excess excitement later in the evening.

3) Bring all of your pets inside before nightfall.

Even if you have outdoor cats, you may wish to keep them inside for their safety and comfort.

Putting down extra litter trays is a good idea if they are not used to long durations indoors.

4) Close all windows, doors and cat flaps securely.

Consider all your options to muffle out the sound of fireworks and reduce the flashes of light. Check all available exits and secure to avoid your pets from bolting.

5) Play music or put the TV on louder than usual to mask the noise.

They'll be more familiar with these day-to-day noises and will acclimatise to the higher volume.

6) Ignore unusual behaviour such as panting, shaking or whining - unless they come to you first for reassurance.

Be affectionate to your pets, but don't be concerned if they retreat to a quieter place instead.

Avoid reprimanding your pets if they display unwanted behaviours - instead try some training exercises or give them an interactive toy as a distraction.

chance of them trying to bolt and run away.

If any of their identification information is not up - it can delay you being reunited quickly.
